

BELIEVE BREAK WITH GERMANY OVER NEW SUBMARINE NAVAL WARFARE CANNOT BE AVERTED

Some Wholly Unexpected Development Alone Can Prevent It.

WHOLE NATION IS WAITING

What Course Government Has Decided On Is Still a Secret Although Some Announcement Is Expected Later in the Day; Germans Are Excited.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The new submarine crisis seems to have resolved itself into another day of waiting. Tonight or tomorrow the American people may know what course their government has decided upon to answer Germany's declaration of unrestricted submarine warfare.

President Wilson and the limited few who know their plans continued their silence today but it was expected that this afternoon the cabinet would be informed of what steps had been taken or are proposed.

On every hand officials are convinced that nothing less than a break in diplomatic relations is the ultimate development. It may be delayed but they all expect it to come unless there is some wholly unexpected development in the situation.

As another day of tension began today was about even as to whether any communication had been dispatched to Berlin. There was no doubt that Secretary Lansing had yesterday prepared a document for President Wilson but whether it had gone further was not known.

The German embassy continued its official silence, calmly prepared for the break which von Bernstorff has said privately he expects, but secretly confident that the German government's action irrespective of the protest of neutrals, will be the winning factor of the war.

Secretary Lansing authorized the statement today that so far no communication had been sent to Germany. The secretary refused to say whether any instructions had been sent to Ambassador Gerard and declined to make any statement for the delay in announcing the course of the United States.

Secretary Lansing said he was not prepared to disclose whether any announcement would be made today or not.

GERMAN PEOPLE FEEL NEW MOVE IS JUST. BERLIN, Feb. 2.—The attitude of the German people in respect to the new submarine policy so far as ascertained today from conversation with persons in various walks of life in and out of politics is that of approval.

FEW MILITARY OPERATIONS. AWAIR SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN. While developments of the new German naval campaign are pending, military operations are on a small scale and command only limited interest.

Signs of probable important happenings on the Franco-Belgian front are not wanting, however. The artillery and reconnoitering activity seems to be growing appreciably all along the line, notably on the British front in Northern France. German airplanes have been doing considerable scouting duty in this section. Berlin mentions it today in reporting the acquisition of valuable information by German armies behind the British front where the next offensive movement in the west may not unreasonably be expected.

In the Somme region the artillery is also notably busy and raiding operations of more than ordinary importance are indicated by the official statement.

On the Russian-Rumanian and Macedonian fronts there have been comparatively few happenings of importance. The German war office reports no changes in any of these war areas.

LITTLE EVIDENCE; TOWZEY RELEASED

Local Youth, Accused of Embezzlement, Out On $500 Bail Until Saturday.

No evidence being introduced to connect him with the theft of $675 from the safe of the Dunbar Pennsylvania railroad station on December 5 last, Ray Towzey of Connellsville, was released on $500 bail, after a hearing Judge J. Q. VanSwearingen at 5 o'clock last evening.

Towzey is said to be the third person suspected of the theft by the Pennsylvania railroad, police. One was arrested and later released and the home of another was searched.

After hearing the testimony of three witnesses Judge VanSwearingen indicated the evidence was insufficient to hold the young man, but the Commonwealth, represented by District Attorney S. John Morrow and Assistant William A. Miller, asked for permission to introduce more testimony, and the hearing was continued until Saturday morning. Towzey was released on $500 bail, furnished by J. R. Davidson, president of the Connellsville school board.

According to the testimony at the hearing before the court this morning there was more than two hours into the date the money was stolen. Towzey, who had been in the Dunbar train, brought it to the office and placed it in the safe. It was testified.

Shortly after noon, it was said, D. E. Cramer, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Construction company's work on the new slag mill in the Dunbar creek valley, called at the express office for the money which was assigned to him for his payroll. Edwin Atwood, the express agent, had gone to dinner, and Towzey opened the safe to get the envelope for Mr. Cramer, and found it missing. It was testified that as many as nine different persons were in the office after the arrival of the money and that each had access to the open safe.

$6,784.11 PRICE JURY PLACES ON SOISSON'S LOT

Verdict in Appeal From Viewers' Award Received by Court Today.

After Granting Appellant $1,000 More Than Viewers Did, Jury Also Adds Interest From Time of Contamination; How the Jury Voted.

Special to The Courier. UNIONTOWN, Feb. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. William H. Soisson of Connellsville, today in common pleas court were awarded $6,784.11 by a jury in a verdict returned before Judge E. H. Reppert for their lot fronting 60 feet in Fairview avenue, Connellsville, where the new high school building is now being erected. The jury found that the market value of the property on last May 1 when it was condemned by the Connellsville school district, was $6,500, and to this amount interest from the date of the condemnation was added. The county viewers awarded Mr. and Mrs. Soisson $5,500 for the property.

The jury retired shortly before 5 o'clock last evening and a verdict was agreed upon at 6:45 o'clock. Four ballots were taken as follows:

First ballot—One for $3,000, two for $3,500, one for $7,500, one for $7,000, one for $5,000, one for $6,000, four for $5,000, and one for $4,150.

Second ballot—Two for $9,000, one for $7,500, three for $7,000, three for $6,000, one for $5,500, one for $5,000, one for $4,000.

Third ballot—Two for $7,500, one for $7,000, eight for $6,500 and one for $6,000.

Following the agreement the verdict was sealed and was returned in court this morning.

Yesterday afternoon the trial of the case was occupied with arguments of counsel. Attorney H. George May, solicitor for the Connellsville school district, and Attorney E. C. Higgins, represented the school board and Attorney James H. Gray represented Mr. and Mrs. Soisson.

Mr. Soisson was not in court yesterday and a motion of counsel for the defendant to withdraw a juror and continue the case on that ground was overruled by Judge Reppert.

It was indicated this afternoon by one in position to know that school board might carry the case to a higher court. Viewers originally placed the value of the lot at $5,500 and the school board felt that this amount is all it can afford to pay.

MANY INQUIRIES. South Connellsville Would Have No Trouble Selling House.

An unusually large number of inquiries have been received by officials of the borough of South Connellsville concerning the $22,000 bond issue, upon which the citizens of the place are soon to vote, and there seems no doubt but what the bonds, if authorized by the people, will be placed without any trouble.

The proposed sewerage and street improvements, for which the $22,000 would be used, were first thought of a short time ago, when an ordinance was introduced in South Connellsville council providing for a special election, when the voters could choose whether they desired a bond issue. The election is scheduled to be held on March 3.

South Connellsville council met last night in regular session. At a meeting of council last night, Glen Cadwallader was elected secretary and Bert Marshall, treasurer, to succeed T. C. Phelan. No new street commissioner was elected, there being a controversy over this office. It is claimed that J. K. Pierce was elected for two years a year ago, although the council declared the office vacant some time ago.

"GRANDMA" LYTTLE DIES SUDDENLY

Well-Known Local Woman Succumbs to Pneumonia at Home of Daughter in Pittsburg.

Mrs. Margaret Gregg Lytle, 92 years old, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. P. Reighard, in Pittsburg, after a short illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Lytle was one of Connellsville's best known residents.

The following children of the marriage survive: Mrs. D. P. Reighard of Pittsburg; Mrs. Alexander Hamilton of Houston, Texas; Mrs. Daisy Reighard of Pittsburg; Mrs. William Lytle of Wellsville, Kansas; Joseph C. Lytle of Connellsville; John Lytle of Burlington, Kansas; Charles Lytle of Sharon, Pa.; and Louis Lytle of Pittsburg.

Mrs. Lytle was one of the oldest members of the First Presbyterian Church here. She never complained of sickness until Tuesday at noon, when she suddenly became ill. Mrs. Reighard and Miss Margaret Lytle, a granddaughter of Mrs. Lytle, were on their way to Long Beach, California, at the time of her death, but were recalled by a telegram which reached them in Kansas.

Mrs. Lytle was one of the most highly respected women in the city. She was familiarly known as "Grandma" Lytle to many persons outside of the family and despite her extreme age was very active. When in Connellsville she resided at her own home on East Fairview avenue with her granddaughter, Miss Margaret Lytle.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of Joseph C. Lytle on Fairview avenue, with private interment in Hill Grove cemetery.

ARGUE OBJECTIONS TO THOMPSON SALE. Receivership of Uniontown Banker Involved in New Court Proceeding.

The future of the J. V. Thompson receivership will be very greatly affected by the result of proceedings in the county court in which John H. Strawn, receiver of the First National Bank of Uniontown, the Fidelity Title & Trust Company, as guardian of the children of the late William A. Hogg, and Elizabeth T. Kremer, object to confirmation of the sale of Thompson coal lands in Greene county to H. C. Frick. The matter was argued yesterday morning.

The objectors allege that judgments on the Thompson property that has been sold constitute a lien which must be considered before the property changes hands, otherwise their claims will be injured.

The bank's interest in the case is represented in a judgment for $109,667.98 which it has recovered against Mr. Thompson in the higher courts.

The Hogg estate has a decree in the orphans' court which shows that Mr. Thompson, as guardian, has $202,814.47 belonging to John T. Hogg and $202,814.47, representing the amount of Frederick K. Hogg, left in both instances to their father, Attorney James R. Gray is representing the Hogg estate.

The objection of Elizabeth T. Kremer is made through Attorney H. S. Dunbar and Charles A. Tait. Her claim is for $3,633.98.

Additional objections and a motion to vacate the receivership were filed at the opening of the afternoon session of court by Attorney William J. Kyle, the well known Waynesburg attorney. Mr. Kyle has a judgment for $5,180 filed in Greene county against Thompson.

"That the life of the receivership and the future existence of the receivership was involved by the proceedings, attorneys for Mr. Thompson, the receivers and the creditors' committee pointed out in their arguments to the court.

WITH LOTS OF SUNSHINE B'ER. GROUNDHOG HAS NO TROUBLE SEEING HIS SHADOW TODAY

It all depends on what time the Groundhog came out this morning. If he stuck his nose out early in the day, he saw no shadow. If this happened, according to the time worn fable, winter is over. If, however, Mr. Groundhog emerged from his winter hiding place later in the day he found the sun shining brightly and scampered back to shelter, convinced that there is to be six more weeks of bad weather.

In view of this uncertainty as to whether the groundhog did or didn't, the well known Weather Man will have to be depended upon for "dope" as to what is going to happen in the next few weeks. He insists that the groundhog, the goosebore and divers other prognosticators don't know what they are talking about, anyway.

The weather man says that the cold wave is to stick with us for some time with cold biting breezes, unaffected by the rays of Old Sol.

Although it seemed much colder than that official thermometer insists that the lowest mark in the last 24 hours was 10 degrees above zero.

During the morning there were alternate snow flurries and spells of sunny weather, accompanied by a cold biting wind.

The noon weather forecast called for colder weather tonight.

Miller Estate Bill. The will of John B. Miller, late of Latrobe, was probated yesterday. The personal property is valued at $100,000 and the real estate at $150,000. Mollie Scott Miller is the executrix of the will. Mr. Miller formerly resided in Connellsville.

At 11 o'clock two women and two girls, unconscious but with the spark of life remaining, were rescued and sent to the county hospital.

A tenant of the building told Fire Marshall O'Connell that at midnight she saw a neighbor moving through the building with a handful of matches which he lighted from time to time, apparently looking for a gas leak. The explosion may have resulted from this.

Twenty-Six Probably Dead and Many Injured; Others Homeless.

FIND FOUR ALIVE IN RUINS

At Daybreak Only Two Had Been Taken Out; Pathetic Scenes As Whole Families Are Driven Out, Scarcely Clad; Mercury 10 Below.

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—At noon, 11 hours after an explosion and fire which wrecked a West Side tenement building at 1 A. M. today, the police announced that 26 persons were missing and probably dead. Ninety-one persons resided in the building according to the agents representing it. The janitor, accounted for 19 of these as being away at work, leaving 72 whom he assumed were in the building at the time the leaking gas exploded. These the police accounted for as follows:

Known dead, 2; injured, 21; missing, probably dead, 26; known rescued or accounted for, 23.

Burning gas from a main prevented search of the ruins and at daybreak only two bodies had been recovered, those of an unidentified man about 30 years old, who was crushed when the walls crumbled, and Mrs. Charlotte Stittler.

The explosion was heard for miles. By some freak of the shock, buildings a few yards away were undamaged while windows were broken many blocks away. Hundreds of Hebrew, Lithuanian, Polish and Russian tenants of the district rushed into the streets scantily clad.

Explosions wrecked one end of the tenement building which contained 24 flats, 16 of which were occupied. The flames burst throughout the lower story immediately. When flames arrived they were able to rescue a few children who were dropped by parents from the upper windows.

Some adults also were saved in this way. A group of railroad switchmen who happened on the scene in advance of the firemen were reported to have rescued 15 children.

The explosion is believed to have followed the bursting of a gas main in the basement of the tenement house. The water on the ruins froze almost as fast as it fell. The gas continued to burn long after the inflammable material of the building had been consumed, lighting up the ice covered objects in weird fashion. Many whose homes were in no danger or who heard the explosion carried their household goods into the streets. Pavements and sidewalks were littered with cradles, chairs and tables—meagre exhibits testifying of the poverty of the neighborhood.

Those driven from their homes found refuge from the cold at Hull House settlement, hospitals, police stations and in stores whose proprietors when alarmed by the explosion opened their doors.

In one little grocery store there was a scene typical of many others. The place was crowded with excited men and women crying and talking excitedly in Yiddish. Among them was Mrs. John Lancowski. She wore a night gown, a shawl, one slipper and one boot. She had brought her six children safely out of the building but in the excitement had lost them again. The oldest, she said, was 10.

Patrick Donohue, an assistant fire marshal, said that when he reached the scene, a great flame of gas was leaping across West 4th place.

"A lot of those people," he said, "were in bed and had no chance to escape. Where gas and flame did not cut them off, falling starways and walls did."

A score or more of persons were injured in adjoining structures by broken glass or in their rushes to escape into the streets. Most of these were cared for at the county hospital.

Morris Feldman, janitor of the building, said that 67 persons were or should have been in the building last night. Of these he said 40 were missing and probably dead.

Firemen attacking the ice-covered wreckage penetrated through the outer crust at 10 A. M. and declared they could distinguish what seemed to be voices beneath them. The efforts to remove the debris were redoubled and ambulances were sent in the hope that victims still alive might be rescued.

"After working for an hour at the wreckage where the moans came from, firemen came upon a man and a woman in a semi-conscious condition. The fireman said that the voices were becoming plainer and that a number of persons seemed to be imprisoned in a sort of a wrecked clockwork grotto arching over by fallen timbers.

At 11 o'clock two women and two girls, unconscious but with the spark of life remaining, were rescued and sent to the county hospital.

A tenant of the building told Fire Marshall O'Connell that at midnight she saw a neighbor moving through the building with a handful of matches which he lighted from time to time, apparently looking for a gas leak. The explosion may have resulted from this.

Are You Intoxicated? The question is not as impertinent as it sounds. You may be a real teetotaler and yet be "intoxicated"—that is, poisoned by the gases that come from imperfect digestion. The products of food putrefaction are taken up by the blood and often poison the entire system. Cut out meats and starchy foods for a while. Eat Shredded Wheat with milk or cream for breakfast; eat it with stewed fruits and green vegetables for dinner or supper. It will cure auto-intoxication and make a new man of you. Fort Fairfield, Maine.—"For many months I suffered from backache caused by female troubles so I was unable to do my housework. I took treatments for it but received no help whatever. Then some of my friends asked why I did not try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and my backache soon disappeared and I felt like a different woman, and now have a healthy little baby girl and do all my housework. I will always praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to women who suffer as I did."—Mrs. Atton D. Oakes, Fort Fairfield, Maine. When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of merit? If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened and read by women only.

MAKING IT PLAIN
The Pure Food and Drug Laws aim to protect the public by preventing mis-statements on the labels of preparations but some people continue to accept "extracts" of cod liver oil thinking they will get the benefits of an emulsion of cod liver oil.
The difference is very great. An "emulsion" contains real cod liver oil, which has had the hearty endorsement of the medical profession for many years, while an "extract" is a product which contains no oil and is highly alcoholic.
Scott's Emulsion guarantees the highest grade of real Norwegian cod liver oil, skillfully blended with glycerine and hypophosphites. Scott's is free from the false stimulation of alcohol and is endorsed by good physicians everywhere.

COUNTY CLERK KELLY

With No Appetite, All Run-down,
Tells How Vinol Helped Him.

So many cases like this are coming to our attention that we are publishing this letter for the benefit of Connecticut people who are in Mr. Kelly's condition. Read our offer below.

Clarksville, Tenn. "I am a County Court Clerk, and became run-down, no appetite, was drowsy and felt badly most of the time. I had tried several remedies without benefit. One day I read an advertisement of Vinol and at once tried it. In a short time my appetite improved, my strength increased and I felt better in every way." S. W. Kelly.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it is an unequalled tonic-body-builder, combining beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese, peptones and gly-cerophosphates, the oldest and most famous tonics known to medicine.

So strong is our faith in Vinol that we offer to return the purchaser's money in every case if Vinol should fail to give satisfactory results.

STANDING BY AND FOR.

In an address in New York last night Charles Evans Hughes, recent opponent of Woodrow Wilson for the presidency, gave expression to the patriotic sentiment that "every loyal American would stand behind the Administration in this solemn hour without a partisan thought."

"We are all Americans tonight, standing behind our President, on whom this great responsibility rests," said Mr. Hughes. "It is not a time to embarrass in any degree with private utterances those charged with this responsibility. They have the facts, they have the duty to perform. They have the sincere, loyal cooperation of every true American. The exigency of no nation can fix the limits of American rights."

This attitude of the people is voluntary, not in answer to any appeal to their patriotism. It is merely the calm expression of their loyalty to the nation in a time of threatened peril. While their support of the President is given unreservedly, wholeheartedly and "without partisan thought," they have the right to demand of President Wilson that he determine upon a course of action or policy that will insure the protection of American rights and citizenship, and that he will adhere to it steadfastly and unswervingly.

The people can be depended upon to stand by the President when they can depend upon the President standing for them.

SCIENCE AND BUSINESS.

The physicians of Johnstown, profiting by the example set by their fellow craftsmen in Fayette, have arranged a schedule of fees which shows that even greater attention has been given by them to the relations between science and business than by our own healers.

While charges for certain services are to be limited to a fixed schedule, great wisdom and foresight has been displayed in providing that certain other charges shall have a rather wide range between minimum and maximum. For instance, when a doctor answers the telephone call of a slightly ailing patient, the charge, under the new schedule, may, as the doctor determines, be anything from 50 cents to $1.00. If the doctor is required to undergo the exertion of submitting his advice to paper in the form of a letter, he is privileged to charge from $1.00 to $10.00, according to the length of the communication. If a patient is able or brave enough to submit to an office consultation, the doctor can charge him from 75 cents to $25.00.

The flexibility of these rules is intended, the public presumes, to cover the varied character and seriousness of the ailments from which relief is sought, rather than the consideration of other factors sometimes alleged to form the basis of charges by doctors.

In providing for still further improvements in the status of their profession, the Johnstown medicals have taken a step in advance of their Fayette brethren in having inaugurated a movement to place it upon as sound a commercial basis as it is already sound professionally. They are planning to establish a central office or bureau, in charge of a person skilled in determining credit ratings and having experience as a collector of overdue and undischarged accounts, and thus allow the doctors to give their exclusive attention to the professional side of their calling, free of the annoyance of business details.

Thus it is seen how rapidly and harmoniously science and business are progressing these days.

MORE TIES, MORE HELP.

While an extension of the West Penn railway from Elkton to West Newton and other down-river towns would make them more directly tributary to Greensburg than to Connelville, to have them connected with the West Penn will not be without advantages to our own city.

These advantages may be indirect, and possibly not of great value as measured by the volume of trade Connelville would draw from the new section. But, as in making new friends, even remote from one's own home, one can never tell how or when they may prove valuable additions to a list of acquaintances. Just so in the case of railroads or other connections which Connelville may make with outside districts. They always have within them possibilities for extending the city's influence and bringing to it many advantages and no little profit.

"Every the blinding us to an outside district helps some. The more ties the more help."

It makes no difference what you want or what you may have to sell a Courier classifier, ad. brings the result.

The selling price of Greensburg coal is moving up and the holders are cheering on.

Congress has started a U-boat campaign of its own. It torpedoed the President's vote of the Immigration bill yesterday and lifted it out of the water of presidential favor by a vote of 238 to 198. Democratic Floor Leader Kitchin joining in the assault.

Wall Street seems to have been the first victim of the new "frightfulness."

Westward the course of the "Bank" takes its way. Profiting by advance information on the U-boat manifesto Chicago Germans cleaned up $10,000,000 on wheat the other day. Will Congress investigate?

The Price pensioners, like all Price employees, take down a good pay, and they deserve it, too.

Who among the loyal Democrats of the Third Ward—the Gibraltar of Democracy—is to be the first to inscribe his name upon the Wipe Out the Debit Roll of Honor?

Scotchmen are having no pipe dreams about South American trade. It is getting real orders for pipe and big ones at that.

"We have been challenged to fight" says Germany. Accepting the challenge she has, exceeded the challenged party's right to choose the weapons.

Somerset county is in the coal land business, too.

The real estate experts who have testified as to the value of that Fairview avenue lot would make either very good or very poor assessors.

The United States Steel and Carnegie Pension Fund's payroll in assuming proportions in keeping with other coke region institutions.

Wiping Out the Debit Roll may be accomplished if enough women, girls and nursing babies can be added to the Roll of Honor.

Captain Lloyd Johnston is like both a woman and a man when his birthday comes around. He is no older than he looks and no older than he feels.

Value has written to Bruce: "You boys are certainly on the job." Not all on yet, in fact. However, some are still in search of them. Bruce hasn't enough places to go around.

Connellsville coal men can now cut valuable pieces of coal and here and there which other less experienced or discerning buyers never find. And they know how to buy them and operate them as well.

WASHINGTON AND WILSON

Now is a Good Time to Compare the Policies of the Two Presidents.

To the Editor of The Courier:—

Since one hundred and twenty years ago Washington, in the farewell message, left us the following directions for our security, which every American should read anew in view of the President's declaration that we abandon our historic policy of independence:

"The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible. So far as we have already formed engagements, let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith. Here let us stop."

Europe has a set of primary interests, which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics, or the combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities.

Our detached and distant situation invites and enables us to pursue a different course. If we remain neutral people, under an efficient Government, let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith. Here let us stop."

"Why forego the advantages of our peculiar situation? Why quit our own to stand upon foreign ground? Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalry, interest, humor, or policy?"

"It is our duty to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world; so far, as every revolution may be said to do it; for let me not be understood as capable of patronizing infidelity to existing engagements. I hold the true policy to be, in relation to foreign nations, to keep as far as possible from permanent alliances, which would involve us in the politics of other nations, and thus, in the present circumstances, to be scrupulously respected."

Had we, "under an efficient Government," taken "care always to keep ourselves free of all entanglements, on a respectable defensive posture, we could now 'defy material injury from external annoyances' and hold such an attitude as would cause our neutrality in the present circumstances to be scrupulously respected."

Had the numerous of Washington been scrupulously observed it would not now be thought necessary by the President to force upon Europe an apologetic note in order to save his country from rushing into the projected arms of a blind pool of war-torn European nations in the hope that it may be spared thereby the legitimate consequences of its own naval and military disintegration.

Now is a Good Time to Compare the Policies of the Two Presidents.

To the Editor of The Courier:—

Since one hundred and twenty years ago Washington, in the farewell message, left us the following directions for our security, which every American should read anew in view of the President's declaration that we abandon our historic policy of independence:

"The great rule of conduct for us, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible. So far as we have already formed engagements, let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith. Here let us stop."

Europe has a set of primary interests, which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics, or the combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities.

Our detached and distant situation invites and enables us to pursue a different course. If we remain neutral people, under an efficient Government, let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith. Here let us stop."

"Why forego the advantages of our peculiar situation? Why quit our own to stand upon foreign ground? Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalry, interest, humor, or policy?"

"It is our duty to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world; so far, as every revolution may be said to do it; for let me not be understood as capable of patronizing infidelity to existing engagements. I hold the true policy to be, in relation to foreign nations, to keep as far as possible from permanent alliances, which would involve us in the politics of other nations, and thus, in the present circumstances, to be scrupulously respected."

Had we, "under an efficient Government," taken "care always to keep ourselves free of all entanglements, on a respectable defensive posture, we could now 'defy material injury from external annoyances' and hold such an attitude as would cause our neutrality in the present circumstances to be scrupulously respected."

Had the numerous of Washington been scrupulously observed it would not now be thought necessary by the President to force upon Europe an apologetic note in order to save his country from rushing into the projected arms of a blind pool of war-torn European nations in the hope that it may be spared thereby the legitimate consequences of its own naval and military disintegration.

THE REVOLVER.

The revolver is a handy implement which is sometimes used to deprive strangers of their jewelry, breath and other valuables. There are also shots in every revolver, any one of which when fired, will prevent the deceased from testifying at the trial of the accused.

Revolvers are bought in large quantities by timid husbands, who take them home in order to discourage burglars from entering the house and carrying off the clock. As a rule, the revolver is always hidden in the lower left hand drawer of the library table, where the husband can get it without troubling the burglar with his bare hands. Revolvers are called concealed weapons for the reason that the contents are usually concealed in somebody's sleeve.

The toy revolver is a playful form of spontaneous combustion, which does most of its combusting on the Fourth of July, and is never used in any other manner in its wake. Some toy revolvers explode with so much zeal that they are called "firecrackers."

HOOVER & LONG'S

If children are allowed to play with the family revolver, they will be taught to point it straight up, and earnestness that people who look down their throat just before pulling the trigger can hardly tell them from the sudden uprising of a keg of dynamite.

The horse pistol is an adult revolver which lets go of a bullet as large as a billiard ball. After a midnight massacre has been committed with a pistol of this kind, the system, it will begin to dawn upon him that he has been struck by something and he will react heavily for some time. There would be fewer burglars in this country if it was generally understood that there was a repeating revolver in every home, however humble, with a bullet intended for a female immediately behind it.

If children are allowed to play with the family revolver, they will be taught to point it straight up, so they will not kill anybody except a total stranger.

HINTS FOR FEBRUARY SHOPPERS

The great January Clearance Sales of the Union Supply Company are things of the past. The wonderful bargains that were offered and bought made records for the Union Supply Company, and made money for our customers. February gives us Groundhog Day, the anniversary of Lincoln's and Washington's Birthdays, Valentine Day, also Ash Wednesday and a number of other religious holidays—these are annual occurrences. It is also an annual occurrence for the Union Supply Company to start sales of early Spring goods in February, and that's what we started to tell you about. Every store in our system is loading up with Spring goods that were purchased months ago—early Spring styles in domestic dry goods particularly. There are very beautiful patterns, and although the price of all this class of goods is advancing, we are still offering them at very reasonable prices. Our buyers have been busy in the markets making contracts for the different lines of Spring goods. We will complete our purchasing of Spring lines during this month by sending our individual store managers to the markets. We recommend that you keep in touch with the Union Supply Company stores. Of course, we still have some winter lines on hand in shoes, clothing, underwear, etc., for men, women, and children, and we are pushing them out at reduced prices. They are bargains for the late purchasers, but what we particularly want to interest you in now is Spring goods; in every department of our big stores we are piling them in. Keep in touch with the Union Supply Company stores.

Relieves Serious Case Of Chronic Constipation

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Corrects Condition That Seemed Hopeless.

After suffering from chronic constipation until she was to run down she was unable to do any kind of work. Miss H. A. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, gentle in its action and free from griping or other pain or discomfort. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, and, while acting readily on the most stubborn case of inactive bowels, is absolutely safe for the tiniest babe, so that it is the ideal family laxative and should be kept on hand in every household for use when needed.

Hospitalier said locust was not timber, therefore it must not be cut.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Trouble.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become over-worked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure, makes a delightful after-dinner little-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

At the Theatres

SOISSON THEATRE.

"THE EAGLE'S WINGS."—A Bluebird special feature, will be the attraction at the Soisson today. It is a patriotic appeal for industrial preparedness. The story was written by Rufus Steele, a prominent San Francisco newspaper man, primarily to introduce scenes bearing upon the much-discussed "industrial preparedness." "The Eagle's Wings" is an inspiration of patriotism; an object lesson in preparedness.

"Brute Force."—A Bison two reel mountain drama with Jane Burroughs, "Harriet from the Barr." A Joker comedy with Gail Henry. Tomorrow Robert Warwick and Mollie King will appear in the five reel World drama, "All Man."—A story which gives a very clear insight into the lives of the so-called "idle rich." Jim Blake is a typical millionaire's son who has only the one idea of life—to have a good time. His father tires of his useless extravagance and decides to try an experiment to see whether the boy has the real stuff in him or not. After a rather stormy interview, his inherited father's fighting blood is aroused and Jim agrees to go to a ranch in Wyoming and prove that he can make good.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"THE DARLING OF PARIS."—Theda Bara, the famous idol of the screen, will be shown at the Orpheum today and tomorrow in the superb Fox production, "The Darling of Paris." Miss Bara impersonates the beautiful, sexy girl, Demetera, the most delightful character in French literature. It is the story of a beautiful, sexy girl who goes to Paris. There her beauty attracts many. A man, jealous of her love for another, kills him and the blame is placed upon her. She is arrested and held prisoner. Glen White appears in the part of Quasimodo, the bell ringer of Notre Dame, who, secretly worshipping her, becomes her protector. Just as she is to be guillotined, he tells the true version of the murder and saves her. Later they are married and all ends well. "Showing Some Speed" is the first of the "Musty Snuff" comedies. A picture of the recent fire, which destroyed the Grand and Grand & Seider's in Pittsburgh, will also be shown today and tomorrow. Children are admitted to the balcony only in the evenings.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE VICTORIA CROSS."—A photodramatic version of Paul Potter's play of the same name, with Lou Tellegen, in the leading role, is being presented today. Although Mr. Tellegen has the distinction of being the first actor to appear in the silent drama, he has only been seen in three other pictures made in the United States, and by Lasky company. Sessue Hayakawa, the epicurean Japanese actor, plays the heavy role in the support of Mr. Tellegen. Chao Ridgely is seen as the leading woman. Chaperoned by male and female, four of the Los Angeles society girls, pupils of Ruth St. Denis of Denishawn, appeared as Oriental dancing girls in the production. Miss St. Denis trained these girls especially for the picture. "The Victoria Cross" is a gripping drama founded on the massacre of the English at Cawnpore during the Sepoy rebellion in India. This is said to be one of the most unusual stories ever written for the screen and played with the usual Lasky degree of excellence, should be most impressive. The in-

FOR ITCHING ECZEMA, OLD SORES AND PILES

"I guarantee my ointment," says Peterson, "to cure eczema; to stop the itching at once and any reliable druggist will cheerfully refund your money if Peterson's Ointment doesn't do anything I say it will do."

William A. Carley of Franklin, N. Y., is surely a wise man. He writes: "I used Peterson's Ointment on a little boy suffering terribly with eczema. It did the work."

Then there is Alex. Loutel, a brave fireman of Buffalo, who is glad to write as follows: "I had an old sore on my leg for many years. The best doctors failed. Peterson's Ointment entirely healed the sore quickly." And from over in Canada comes a letter from A. Blockley, stating: "The best thing I ever hit for itching piles is Peterson's Ointment." A big box for 25 cents.

Incidents in the play are mostly historical. The story is told in India. Tomorrow, "Three of Many," a Triangle feature starring Clara Williams, Charles Gunn and George Fisher, and a Keystone comedy in two acts, will be presented.

ARCADE THEATRE.

"THE SLIM PRINCESS."—Francis X. Bushman, supported by Ruth Stonehouse and an all star cast, are at the Arcade today in "The Slim Princess." It is a delightful comedy drama filled with beauty and romance and bubbles over with George Ade's delicate and subtle humor. Mr. Ade has written into this comedy some of his best humor, and by some it is said to be his cleverest work. With this all star cast the play is presented on the screen with talents that it would be impossible to equal on the dramatic stage. Charlie Chaplin will also be at the Arcade and will be seen in a picture presented in Connellsville for the first time, "The Heart Thief." It is as funny as all the other Chaplin pictures. Tomorrow's show will start at 10 o'clock in the morning in order to accommodate all who wish to see the picture. Tomorrow's historical drama based upon General Custer's last stand, called "Britton of the Seventh." At the first show all the old soldiers will be admitted free, being the guests of the management. The show starting at this hour will assure the veterans that the house will not be overcrowded and that they can select seats that will be best fitted to their particular vision. Friday and Saturday are popular days with the children owing to the excellent comedy and wholesome dramas presented.

What To Do When Baby Has The Croup

Pennsylvania Mother Advises Use of "External" Treatment—VapoRub.

What to do when baby has the croup is a serious matter in every home. In the South the universal treatment is a good rub over the throat and chest with Vick's VapoRub Salve. The body warmth releases the ingredients in the form of vapors that, inhaled with each breath, quickly relieve the breathing. In addition, Vick's is absorbed through the skin, relaxing the nervous tension and taking away the tightness and soreness.

Last winter, Mrs. W. M. Rosenberger, 128 W. Broad St., Souderton, Pa., tried Vick's VapoRub for the first time, and writes—

"I have used Vick's VapoRub on my baby when he has had croup and colds in his throat and chest, and it has helped him wonderfully. I think it is the best thing of its kind I have ever used, and always want some in the house."

In addition to croup and colds, Vick's will be found useful in a hundred ways in the home as a salve—for burns, bruises, itches, etc. Three sizes, 25c, 50c or $1.00.

CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY
"AUTHOR OF 'THE CHALLENGE OF COURAGE'
"THE ISLAND OF REGENERATION," ETC., AND
CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY JR.
CIVIL ENGINEER.

"Stolen," said the young man, stepping toward her and taking her hands again. "We're in awful trouble."
"It is any trouble I can share," said the girl, flashing at him a look which set his pulses bounding—at least she was to be depended on—"You know you can count on me."
"You know I can," he exclaimed gratefully.
"New term?"
"The international bridge is about to fall."
The color came to her face again. Was that all? came into her mind. That was serious enough, of course; but it would not matter in the long run. Helen realized the awful gravity, the terrible seriousness, of the situation of course. The bridge meant much to her even if it quite a different way. It was there he had saved her from the awful fall. It was there that he had told her that he loved her. The bridge might fall, but it was as eternal as her affection in her memory. Their en-

Into the Room Burst Colonel Hingworth, eager of their marriage, and became dependent upon the successful completion of the bridge. What, of that? The problem meant nothing to her when she looked at the white-faced agonized man to whom she had given herself.
"It is terrible, of course," she said quietly. "But you can do nothing."
"If I could, do you think I'd let the bridge, and you, go without?"
"I'm not going with the bridge," was her quick and decisive interruption.
They had both forgotten the presence of young Johnson, who was not only decidedly uncomfortable, but deeply anxious. He was about to speak when, into this already broken scene, came another interruption.
There was a rush of wheels on the driveway outside, the roar of a motor. Before Mende could answer the state ment, into the room burst Colonel Hingworth. He was covered with dust, his face was white, his eyes filled with anxiety. The character of the summons had disfigured him beyond measure. Back of him came Severance, the vice president, and Curdiss, the chief engineer.
"Mende, what of the bridge?" he burst out, with a quick nod to his daughter. Colonel Hingworth had not stopped to hunt for a wayside telephone. The automobile driven madly, recklessly through the hills and over the rough roads, had brought him directly to the office in the shortest possible time.
"There is a deflection one inch and three-quarters deep in one of the compression members, C-10-R," was the prompt and terrible answer.
Colonel Hingworth had not been president of the Marlett Bridge company for so long without learning something of practical construction. He was easily enough of an engineer to realize instantly what that statement meant.
"When did you discover it?" he snapped out.
"Last night."
"Is the bridge gone?"
"Not yet."
"Why didn't you let us know?"
"I telegraphed father and, in hearing from him, I came down on the railroad train. It is a holiday in New York as well as here. I just happened to meet father in the office. He sent a telegram to you and not hearing from you, I duplicated it an hour later. I tried half a dozen times to get you on the telephone and finally, by a happy chance, got hold of young Johnson."
"Where are your father's telegrams?"
"Here."
Colonel Hingworth tore the first open with trembling fingers.
"Why didn't you tell Abbott?" asked the chief engineer.
"You know Abbott. He said the bridge would stand until the world caved in. Said he could juggle the number into line. He wouldn't do a thing except on direct orders from here."
"Your father writes, 'put no more weight on the bridge.' What shall we do?" interposed Colonel Hingworth.
"Telegraph Abbott at once."
"If the bridge goes it means ruin to the company," said the agitated vice president, who was the financial member of the firm and who could easily be panicked for a natural exaggeration under the terrible circumstances.
"Yes, but if it goes with the men on, it means—Johnson, are you a telegraph operator?"
"Yes, sir."
"Take the key," said the colonel, with having been a soldier, thought best of the men.
Johnson sat down at the table where the direct wire run from the bridge company to the telegraph office. He reached his hand out and laid his fingers on the key. Before he could give the faintest pressure to the instrument, it suddenly clicked of its own motion. Everybody in the room stood silent.

It is a message from Hichings, the chief of construction. "Mende," of Johnson paused a moment, listening to the rapid click—"The International—"
he said in an awestruck whisper.
It had come!
"Read it, man! Read it, for God's sake!" cried the chief engineer.
"The bridge is in the river," faltered Johnson slowly, word by word, translating the fearful message on the wire. "Abbott and one hundred and fifty men with it!"

CHAPTER VI.

The Failure.

In spite of himself and his confidence in the bridge, Abbott felt a little uneasy the next morning. At bottom he had more respect for Mende's technical knowledge than he had displayed or even admitted to himself. The younger engineer's terrified alarm, his utter forgetfulness of the amenities between them, his frantic but futile efforts to telephone, of which the operator told Abbott in the morning, his hurried departure to New York, were, to say the least, somewhat disquieting, much more so than he was fain to admit to himself.
Although it involved a hard and somewhat dangerous climb downward and took upwards of a half hour of his valuable time, the first thing the chief engineer did in the morning was to go down to the pier head and make a thorough and careful examination of the buckled member. C-10-R was, of course, a part of the great lower chord of the huge diamond-shaped truss, which, with its parallel sixty feet away on the other side of the bridge and its two opposites across the river, supported the whole structure. If anything were wrong, seriously, irreparably wrong with the member and it gave way, the whole truss would go. The other truss would inevitably follow suit, and the entire tower would immediately collapse. Abbott realized that, of course, as he climbed carefully down to the pier head and stood on the shoe.
Abbott, as he stood by the member and surveyed it, throughout its length, could easily see that it had buckled, although the deflection was slight, about two inches at its maximum in sixty feet. He brought with him a line and, with his hands and knees, he drew it out across the slight curvature like a bow-string. He had estimated the number, or the distance between the center of the bow and the spring, at one and a half inches. As he made more careful measurements, he discovered that it was slightly over one and three-quarters inches. In seven hundred and twenty that was scarcely noticeable, and it did not seem very much to Abbott. As he stood there feeling himself an insignificant figure amid this great, interlocking mass of steel, again the sense of its strength and stability came to him overpoweringly, so much so that he laughed aloud in a rather grim fashion at the unwelcome nervousness which had been induced in his mind by Mende's words and actions.

Pittsburg Woman Now Attributes Her Recovery to Master Medicine.

"This Tanlac has relieved me of that dreadful catarrh," said Mrs. Florence Brown, residing at 129 Atwood street, Pittsburg, Pa., recently, "and I now feel like an entirely new woman."

"I had catarrh of the stomach and head. My head was all stopped up, feeling full and sore most of the time. I am certain that I swallowed the accumulations in my throat when I slept at night, as I never had any appetite for breakfast."

"I was in a terribly debilitated condition, too. It seemed that I had almost no blood circulation. I suffered intensely from headaches and my sleep never was sound and restful. I was nervous and languid and lacked energy."

"My head became clearer and I noticed that my catarrh was fast disappearing. My appetite became so ravenous that it was difficult to satisfy it. I began sleeping peacefully and my sleep is now restful and beautiful. I have gained strength and weight rapidly. My headaches have gone, and the circulation of my blood is now normal."

Tanlac is now sold here by the Conneltsville Drug Co.
Tanlac can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Mason's Drug Store.—Adv.

Using State Coal Opposed.
The bill introduced in the Ohio legislature to compel institutions of that state to use Ohio coal is being very bitterly opposed on the ground that its passage would hamper the trade relations of the state and cause others to retaliate.
